

Irish Setter Red x Red-White

Outcross Program 2015 - 2025

Introduction

Crossing must save Irish red-white setter.

A new spring for Ireland's oldest hunting dog breed gets support in the Netherlands. Recently, the Irish Setter Club Netherlands launched a national version of the Irish red redcross with red and white setters. This version is based on the program of the Irish Kennel Club, broadened by national breeding rules and approved by the Netherlands Board of Management in the Netherlands and Irish Setter Club Netherlands. (See Links)

A first combination under these new rules has now been applied to the Irish import Summertime Lady, who lives in the O'Conloch kennel in Broekland. The Irish Outcross Commission has now agreed and all tests have been met with excellent research results. Summertime Lady is accompanied by Pallas Green Ike Turner on Monday, March 30, 2015. He is a younger brother of Irish field champions Pallas Green Harriet and Halloway.

This combination contributes to the genetic diversity of the Irish Red-White Setter. That is the primary goal of the Irish Kennel Club's outcross program. This will ensure a healthy future of this breed. This has been jeopardized by moving inbreeding into a narrow gene pool.

Widening of the gene pool is now possible by using the Red Irish Setter, which has the same origin. Or, as several breeders and enthusiasts defend fire, every Irish setter is a mix of all Irish setter colors. Van (cream) white with red islets, half-half drawn, or with a beautiful blue and white feet to even red with a white breast spot. The renowned John Nash (Moanruad) was already a fervent advocate of outcrosses and many setters of him showed a white flash and white feet.

It is expected that a small number of breeders will work together nationally and internationally within this program. The demand for outcross setters is high and the expectation is a wide spread of unique Dutch material to serious breeders worldwide. The Netherlands participates in putting a very sporty and healthy Irish Setter down for the future !!

Tip: The Irish Setter Club Netherlands celebrates the centenary in 2015. A planned activity is the organization of a conference on how to ensure a healthy future for the red and red-white Irish setter for the next hundred years. (Updated 03-Jun-2015)

Latest news :

- Puppies 16 days, all birth weights well above 1000 grams.
- Puppies 12 days, all grown well and first eyes open open.

Goals

- Widening gene pool of (both Red and) Red-White Irish setter.
- Drastic reduction of the coefficient of inbreeding (COI).
- Retention of Type, Character and Adel.
- Through pedigree and genetic (DNA) research by effectively targeted breeding, as much as possible, reducing defects.
- A Healthy Sportive / Racy Irish breeders breed that can both score high as well as family dogs, as well as all-round deployment in all possible contest disciplines.

Scheduled nest

The planned nest is fully in line with recently launched new plans by the Board of the Kynological Area in the Netherlands to commit breeders first to breed for health. With this program entitled Fairfok, one wants to play a pioneering role in global dog sports.

Summary

Dutch support for outcross programs Irish red and white setter

A new spring for the Irish red and white setter is supported in the Netherlands. The Dutch Irish Setter Club recently launched a national version of an Irish Red with Red and White Setters. This version is based on the program of the Irish Kennel Club, broadened with clubrules for breeding. It has the support of the Dutch Kennel Club.

A first combination under these new rules is meanwhile planned from the Irish import Summertime Lady, based in the O'Conloch kennels in Broekland. She is, the Irish outcross committee agreed and all tests are done, been mated to Pallas Green Ike Turner (Marley) on 30 March 2015. He is a younger brother of the Irish Field Trial Champions Pallas Green Harriet and Halloway. Our fingers are crossed ...

Breaking news: The pregnancy confirmed on 01-May-2015 by echography!

This combination contributes to the genetic diversity of the Irish red and white setter. That is the main target of the outcross program of the Irish Kennel Club, meant to pave pathways for a healthy future of the oldest hunting breed of Ireland. This can be at risk due to increased inbreeding in a small gene pool.

The planned litter is in tune with new plans of the Dutch Kennel Club to promote breeding for health first. The Dutch aim at a pioneer function for the dog world with their recently launched Fairfok program.

The 'Irish Setter Club' celebrates its centennial in 2015. The club organizes in November of that year a congress on the question how to survive as a healthy breed in the next hundred years. (Released May 2, 2015 / June 03, 2015)
